DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-7, drawn to DNA and recombinant cell, classified in class 536, subclass 24.1.
- II. Claims 8-18, drawn to method detecting compounds that induces expression of retinoid-inducible gene, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
- III. Claims 19-20, drawn to method of cancer treatment, unclassifiable because of undisclosed nature of the compound.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the promoters of group I can be used to express proteins.

Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the methods of groups II and III differ in method steps, modes of operation, reagents needed and serve different endpoints and effects. A method of detecting compounds requires different reagents and method steps than a method of treatment, which requires the administration of a compound to a subject.

Group 1 contains claims generic to a plurality of disclosed patentably distinct species of retinoid inducers (listed in claim 3) comprising all-trans retinoic acid, fenretinide, 9-cis retinoic acid, 13-cis retinoic acid, or etretinate and patentably distinct species of promoters (listed in claims 4 and 6) comprising SEQ ID NO. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, or 12. The inducers are patentably distinct because they are different in chemical structure and interact with different promoters, and the promoters are patentably distinct because they are different in chemical structure and biological activity. If group 1 is elected, applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species of inducer and a single disclosed species of promoter, even though this requirement is traversed.

Group II contains claims generic to a plurality of disclosed patentably distinct species of cellular genes (listed in claim 13 and 15). The cellular genes are patentably distinct because they are different in chemical structure and biological activity. If group 2 is elected, applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species of cellular gene (listed in claims 13 and 15), even though this requirement is traversed.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Several inventions are independent and distinct for the reasons given above. They have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and require independent searches. The search required for each of the above inventions is not coextensive with regard to the literature and the sequence searches. Further, a reference which would anticipate the invention of any one group would not necessarily anticipate or make obvious the any of the other groups. For these reasons, restriction for examination purposes is proper.
